

Elliott O'Brien

Chief Information Officer

Based in Toronto, Elliott O'Brien is OANDA's Chief Information Officer. He is responsible for the company's global data, security and infrastructure strategy, as well as ensuring the technologies to support corporate operations and objectives are in place.

Elliott has a wealth of experience in transforming information and infrastructure strategy in rapidly-growing software and hardware product companies. He joined OANDA from ecobee, where he was Vice President, Scalability.

Elliott holds a BE in Electrical and Biomedical Engineering from McMaster University.